An Introduction to the Competing Values Framework

The Competing Values Framework (CVF) has been recognized as one of the fifty most important models in the history of business. It originally emerged from empirical research on what factors make organizations effective (Quinn and Rohrbaugh, 1983). The framework has since been applied to a variety of topics related to individual and organizational behavior. It has been the focus of empirical studies for more than 20 years, and it has been employed to help thousands of organizations and tens of thousands of managers improve their performance.

THE COMPETING VALUES FRAMEWORK

The Four Quadrants

The Competing Values Framework (CVF) consists of two dimensions—one drawn vertically and the other drawn horizontally—resulting in four quadrants. When studying the effectiveness of organizations more than two decades ago, it was discovered that some organizations were effective if they demonstrated flexibility and adaptability, but other organizations were effective if they demonstrated stability and control. Similarly, some organizations were effective if they maintained efficient internal processes whereas others were effective if they maintained competitive external positioning relative to customers and clients (Quinn & Rohrbaugh, 1981; Quinn & Cameron, 1983; Cameron, 1986; Cameron, Quinn, DeGraff, & Thakor, 2006). These differences represent the different ends of two dimensions, and these dimensions constitute the rudiments of the Competing Values Framework. Each quadrant in the framework represents a way of being, seeing, managing, and organizing

The Collaborate Quadrant

The Collaborate quadrant represents the kinds of people, purposes, and processes that give rise to cooperation and collaboration. People in the Collaborate quadrant tend to be committed to their community, focusing on shared values and communication. Their culture is oriented towards involvement and building commitment over time. Collaborate companies often seek to be the employer of choice. Driving purposes include cohesion and commitment. Leaders build the organization by encouraging trusting relationships and by nurturing community. Unified behavior produces a strong organizational image in the marketplace. Customers may be considered partners in an extended community. The Collaborate profile taken to an extreme becomes negative and turns into a permissive, lax environment where outcomes and results are under-emphasized.

The Create Quadrant

The Create quadrant represents the kinds of people, purposes, and practices that are associated with creativity, innovation, and vision. Individuals with this perspective tend to be change oriented. The culture that supports their work is characterized by experimentation, flexibility, and looking forward toward the future. The focus is on generating ideas. These people tend to enjoy entrepreneurial activities. Create companies tend to seek to create something new. Driving purposes include innovation or growth. They strive to orient their products, services, and ideas to the future. Managers build the organization by developing a compelling vision and emphasizing new ideas and technologies, flexibility, and adaptability. Create companies capitalize on turbulent environments. The Create quadrant taken to an extreme becomes negative by being constantly chaotic, trying out one more new idea, and under-emphasizing the achievement of predictable outcomes.

The Compete Quadrant

The Compete quadrant represents the kinds of people, purposes, and practices that are associated with aggressive competition and achievement. A focus on achieving results leads people to be defined as either winners or losers. Individuals with this perspective tend to be focused on performance and goals. Compete companies tend to emphasize speed and getting results. Driving purposes include profits, obtaining market share, revenues, and brand equity, or speed of response. Managers build the organization by clarifying objectives and improving the firm's competitive position through hard work and productivity. These companies seek to deliver results to stakeholders as quickly as possible. Beating the competition is central. The Compete profile taken to an extreme becomes negative by giving rise to self-interests and conflict and by neglecting the more humane people issues.

The Control Quadrant

The Control quadrant represents the kinds of people, purposes, and practices that give rise to predictable, dependable performance. People in the Control profile tend to be systematic, careful, and practical. Their culture focuses on planning, efficient systems and processes, and enforcing compliance. Control companies tend to keep things running smoothly and efficiently. Driving purposes include obtaining high quality or optimization, sometimes expressed as predictability or productivity. Managers build the organization by optimizing processes, cutting costs, and establishing policies and procedures. Clear role definitions are important. These companies tend to elaborate or extend existing products with minor variations. The Control quadrant taken to an extreme becomes negative by leading to languishing bureaucracy and organizational stagnation.

An advantage of the CVF is that it is based on a well-developed theoretical and empirical foundation. A great deal of research has been produced to validate the CVF and its applications. It is consistent, for example, with the psychology of Jung, the sociology of Parsons, the philosophy of Wilber, and the brain physiology of Lawrence. Individuals taking the assessments, therefore, as well as organizations receiving data on their own attributes, can link their results to other well-developed approaches to improvement.

Most importantly, the empirical research conducted by scholars in hundreds of organizations, coupled with the hundreds of interventions in real organizations that have utilized the Competing Values Framework, provide a rich array of guidelines and prescriptions for how to improve individual and organizational performance. These are not merely conveniently created instruments. They are, rather, an integrated array of assessment devices aimed to help enable and enhance consistent and comprehensive improvement.

THE COMPETING VALUES CULTURE ASSESSMENT

Why should I use the Competing Values Culture Assessment?

The purpose of this assessment is to diagnose your organization's current and desired culture. Unfortunately, most of us are not even aware of our organization's culture inasmuch as culture represents "just the way things are around here." Culture is the sum of the collective assumptions, expectations, and values that reflect explicit and implicit rules in the organization. Until challenged or violated, most people are not even aware that these assumptions and rules exist (such as speaking English or being polite). As a result, it is very difficult to intelligently discuss culture, not to mention try to change it. We learn about the culture of our organization through socialization processes, interactions under uncertain conditions—when we mostly rely on core habits and the most well-learned responses—and by contagion (or unconscious mimicking). Much of that learning, however, is not systematic or conscious.

Understanding organizational culture is important because it is the single largest factor that inhibits organizational improvement and change. Research is clear that healthy cultures enhance success whereas unhealthy cultures inhibit success (Cameron & Quinn, 1999), but in order to take advantage of the power of organizational culture, it must be adequately measured. Research by Cameron and Mora (2002) found that 96 percent of the time successful mergers and acquisitions could be accurately predicted based solely on cultural match. Organizational change and improvement, in other words, is markedly affected by culture.

A change in organizational culture can occur simply by means of life cycle development—i.e., evolutionary changes—or as a result of a major threat or crisis when dramatic transformations occur. The most productive way to facilitate culture change, however, is through competent leadership and systematic change initiatives. This instrument helps identify the cultural profile of your organization which is a prerequisite for fostering organizational change and improvement. Because the instrument is based on the Competing Values Framework, it can help create a common language among employees within your organization and give them an easy way to discuss how to effectively achieve desired results.

The Competing Values Culture Assessment

These six questions ask you to identify the way you experience your organization right now, and, separately, the way you think it should be in the future if it is to achieve its highest aspirations. In the survey, “the organization” refers to the organization managed by your boss (or the organization in which you manage). .

Please rate each of the statements by dividing 100 points between alternatives A, B, C, and D depending on how similar the description is to your firm. (100 would indicate very similar and 0 would indicate not at all similar). The total points for each question must equal 100. The assessment uses this method to better demonstrate how moving toward one profile also requires moving away from its opposite. That is, it demonstrates the inherent tradeoffs of any approach to culture change.

First rate how you perceive the organization to be at the present time in the NOW column. Second, rate the organization again in the FUTURE column depending on how you think your organization must be if it is to accomplish its highest objectives and achieve spectacular success.

You may divide the 100 points in any way among the four alternatives in each question. Some alternatives may get zero points, for example. Remember that the total must equal 100.

C - represents the Control Quadrant (Lower Left Corner)

D - represents the Create Quadrant (Upper Right Corner)

Creating the Visual Results:

Creating a visual picture allows for you to think through your results with the CVF more effectively. A picture also helps you make more comparisons and capture more trends than analyzing numbers alone.

To create your visual results start by taking your average number in column A of the NOW section and by plotting that point in the Collaborate quadrant. Continue to plot each column in NOW section until all the quadrants are complete. You will then start in the upper left corner and connect the plotted number with a straight solid line to the plotted number in the upper right column. Connect all of the quadrants in a clockwise direction until four solid lines have been created to form a kite like shape.

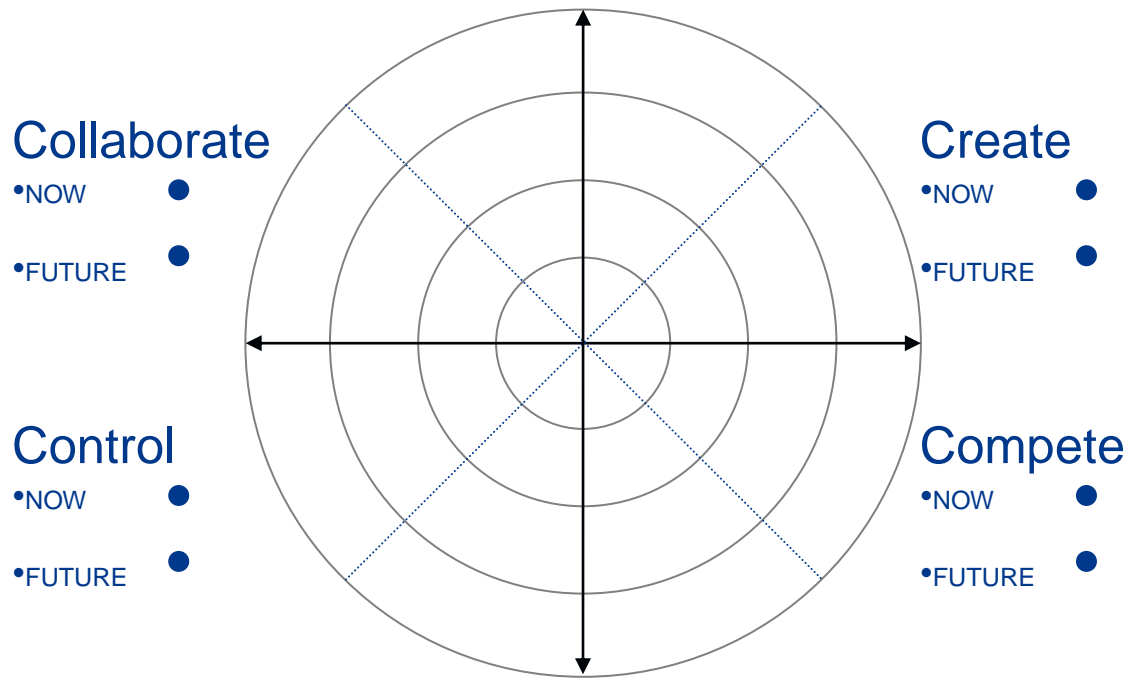

Follow the same steps with the averages from Future section but instead of using four solid lines use four dotted lines (or solid lines of a different color) to connect the plotted numbers in each quadrant.

For Example:

Plot Your Results Below:

Discrepancies & Similarities

1. On which items are the discrepancies and similarities greatest between your own ratings of the culture and those of all others?
2. On which items are there discrepancies and similarities among the different business units in the organization? How do these discrepancies and similarities help or prevent in changing its culture?
3. On which items in the culture survey is there discrepancies and similarities with the competency survey?

Planning for Action

After reviewing your NOW and Preferred culture and competencies and analyzing the results to find similarities, discrepancies, and overall meaning you can follow these steps to create action within your organization.

1. Identify required culture CHANGE. Based on the discrepancies in the culture plots, what needs to change in the organization? You'll need to increase your emphasis on what, and decrease your emphasis on what?
2. Identify MEANING. In light of your decision to make some changes to achieve the PREFERRED culture, answer these two questions about each quadrant:
  - a. What DOES IT MEAN to change in this quadrant?
  - b. What DOESN'T IT MEAN to change in this quadrant?
3. Tell Stories. Identify one or two memorable stories or incidents that illustrate the underlying culture that characterizes your PREFERRED culture. What anecdote symbolizes what you want to become?
4. Identify STRATEGIES. Develop two or three specific, actionable strategies that are imperative for changing the culture. (To assist you in this area, the last section lists numerous suggestions for change.)
  - a. What should we do MORE of?
  - b. What should we STOP doing?
  - c. What should we BEGIN anew?
5. Identify immediate SMALL WINS. Develop a list of a few key action steps that you can implement right away. These will likely be incremental improvements that can create immediate momentum for change.
6. Identify METRICS, MEASURES, and MILESTONES. Identify the indicators of success, how they will be assessed, and the time frame in which observable progress will occur.
7. Articulate the LEADERSHIP implications. Determine the learning and development activities that will be needed to develop the leaders you will need to guide the future culture.

- 8. Determine the COMMUNICATION STRATEGY. What symbols, logos, and mechanisms will be used to communicate the new culture?
